

Please note that this list will be edited and augmented.

This list is not complete and students should thoroughly investigate their options

Individuals can receive loudspeaker-related education from many universities in North America. Some universities have focused programs in acoustics and vibrations that might provide greater opportunities and more complete training. Here is an initial list of some of these universities in alphabetical order:

	Program	Contact	e-mail	Comment
Boston University
Brigham Young University
Duke University
Georgia Institute of Technology
Penn State University	http://www.acs.psu.edu	T. B. Gabrielson	tbg3@psu.edu	Graduate only, classes also available via internet
Purdue University		Robert Selmer
University of Cincinnati
University of Hartford
University of Illinois Urbana-Champaign
University of Kentucky
University of Mississippi
University of Sherbrooke
University of Texas at Austin
University of Washington
University of Waterloo (phasing out)
Virginia Polytechnic Institute

limited programs include the following:

Johns Hopkins University
McGill University
Stanford University
University of California, Berkeley
University of California, San Diego
University of Florida
University of Hartford
University of Northern Colorado
University of Rochester
University of Southern California

related programs:

University of Science and Technology (Norway) RWTH
Aachen University (Germany) Technical University of Denmark Université du Maine (France) University of South America could also be listed.

Lappeenranta University of Technology

Osaka University

University of New South Wales

University of Auckland

Helsinki University

University of Aalborg (Denmark)